

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A Mobile Pet Food Storage Container is disclosed. The container has a movable platform for placing bagged or loose pet food thereon. The height of the platform raises or lowers, depending upon the quantity of food remaining on the platform. The container further has wheels and a retractable handle such that it can be conveniently transported. Still further, the container has at least one tray extendable from the front of the container that is further capable of being foldably stowed. Finally, the container has a pocket extending from a side wall of the container.